NEW YORK, Oct. 6.-Lackawanna was special feature of the stock market tay. The stock opened at 147, re-ed to 1882, and then, by easy stages, deal of comment, and a number se. So far as can be learned, the reason for the spurt was that a Wall street house and a Stock ngs operator who made a great f money by the collapse of the have been caught short of the and a number of traders in the k advantage of the scarcity of ock to squeeze these bears. It is there is still a large outstanding interest in the specialty. The anthracite coalers were easy. Jeranthracite coalers were easy. Jer-central rising 4. Watch the list carefully, as new books are constantly added. 1. THE REVERIES OF A BACHELOR; OR, A BOOK OF THE HEART, By IK. MARVEL (Donald G. Mitchell.)

This American classic has enjoyed a world wide circulation at its price of It is now offered for the first time at a nominal cost to our sub-How agreeable is "Ik. Marvei" in this gem of a book from his pen, how quaint, how humorous, philosophical, pathetic and charming.

LAYS OF ANCIENT ROME. By LORD MACAULAY. Beautifully Illustrated. Macaulay's "Lays" are instinct with the very soul of poetry, and are full of heroic action and energy. Like Scott's spirit-stirring ballads, they have a fine picturesque quality, with graphic breadth and great realistic power of expression. The English, no less than the Roman lays, have the breadth of the battlefield and the sounding notes of the charge to battle. The illustrations of this edition are unique, being executed in delicate outline.

3. A TILLYLOSS SCANDAL. By J. M. BARRIE.

A new work by J. M. Barrie, author of the Scottish classic, "The Little Minister," which has had a phenomenal sale, may be expected to what the literary appetite of every intelligent reader of high-class fiction. In stories of humble Scottish peasant life, Mr. Barrie is on his own special ground. He knows the characteristics of the Scottish weaver and the peasant class as the sailor knows the Sea. His sketches are full of a dry, quaint humor, with a strong realism and great force and directness of narrative power. Never, since Scott's day, has Lowland Scottish fiction had such an interpreter or so entrancing a depictor of character, lit up, at the same time, with odd situations and amusing or droil incident.

4. THE HOUSE OF THE SEVEN GABLES. By NATHANIEL HAWTHORNE. This musterpiece of Hawthorne's is full of the imaginative charm of romance. In felicity of touch, its author is unapproached by any writer since his own day. The work is, perhaps, the purest piece of poetic prose in all the range of

CRANFORD. By MRS. GASKELL.

"Cranford," in its charming miniature painting and sketches of character, recalls the best of Jane Austen's novels. It is a delightful picture of old world social life in an English country village, descriptive of the feelings, habits, opinions, character and social conditions of the little community. The story is quiet earnestness and with fine literary aptitudes in the writer. It is beautifully fillustrated. fliustrated.

6. THE COMING RACE. By LORD LYTTON.

"The Coming Race," by Lord Lytton, is a clever and ingenious excursion into the realm of science, as the inventive mind of man may find it in the coming time. It presents a curious but fascinating picture of the human environments, as we may see it realized in the next century, when human needs will be served by every resource of electrical and mechanical contrivance—when "the coming race." for instance, will be enabled to exchange domestic helps for ingenious and mercury-footed automatons, and have at command every appliance adapted to the marveliously changed social and industrial condition of things. The work is the product of a fanciful but rarely gifted and versatile mind.

7. DREAM LIFE, By IK MARVEL (Donald G. Mitchell.) There is a profound mental study in this world-wide American classic. It contains a series of very vivid and picturesque studies of individual character and feeling. It has a fascinating power over the reader, while its graceful diction charms the literary appreciation and fills the mind with delightful, though sometimes pathetic pictures.

S, FRANKENSTEIN; OR, THE MODERN PROMETHEUS. By MRS. SHELLET Like Mrs. Crowe's "Night Side of Nature," Mrs. Shelley's "Frankenstein" is a book every one should read. Its author has great imaginative powers and a weird but original genius. There are passages in "Frankenstein" that appai the mind and make the flesh creep. Once read, the book can hardly ever be for-

This is just the book to put into the hand of youth, circulating a healthy morality, and true manly and womanly sentiments. Few books are better formed than this to develop and mould the tastes of the rising generation and encourage optimistic and patriotic ideas. A BOOK OF GOLDEN DEEDS. By C. M. YONGE,

10. MOSSES FROM AN OLD MANSE, By NATHANIEL HAWTHORNE. Another delightful companion for idle hours is this collection of magazine papers, which Hawthorne entitled "Mosses from an Old Manse." Like all his works, it is distinguished for its simplicity and truth. Its high literary excellence commends it anew to public favor.

11. THE SCARLET LETTER. By NATHANIEL HAWTHORNE. A romance of intense interest, exhibiting extraordinary power of mental analysis and graphic description. For an artistic exposition of Puritaniam, as modified by New England colonial life, we have nothing like it in our literature. Like the best of Scott's novels, it is true at once to the local manners and scenic features of the age and place.

12. ESSAYS OF ELIA. By CHARLES LAMB. These charming essays are full of a gay humor, interspersed with many sly hits, happy puns and bright scintillations of wit; carefully elaborated as they are, hits, happy puns and bright scintillations of wit; carefully elaborated as they are, they are written with the utmost ease and grace, and composed in a spirit at they are written with the utmost ease and grace, and composed in a spirit at once delicate and unobtrusive. Seeking his material in the common paths of life—even the humblest—Lamb gives an importance to everything and sheds a manage over all.

13. VICAR OF WAKEFIELD, By OLIVER GOLDSMITH. This beautifully illustrated edition of a famous English classic will increase that attractions for those who recognize the claim it has as essentially a "home to sook" for the whole reading world. Goldsmith has shed over the world the book" for the whole reading world. Goldsmith has shed over the world the tenderest light of his genius, and the pastoral scenes in it are unrivalled, we tenderest light of his genius, and the pastoral scenes in it are unrivalled, we had almost said unapproached, by any other writer of fiction. As Sir Walter had almost said of it, "We read the Vicar of Wakefield in youth and in age, and return to it again and again, and bless the memory of an author who contrives so well to reconcile us to human nature." The book, throughout its fascinating pages, exhibits all the characteristic traits of "Poor Poli"—a genial fancy, and the most diverting simplicity. diverting simplicity.

14. TWICE TOLD TALES. By NATHANIEL HAWTHORNE. Hawthorne, the most distinctly American and by far the most popular of our writers, has given the world an undying book in "Twice-Told Tales." The stories writers has given the world an undying book in "Twice-Told Tales." The stories were originally contributed to an Annual, published now over fifty years ago, and being subsequently reprinted, are in reality "Twice-Told Tales." They have all being subsequently reprinted, are in reality "Twice-Told Tales." They have all the felicity of expression, as well as the subtlety of thought and insight, which the felicity of contemplation, and its effect is heightened by the felicities of its own air of contemplation, and its effect is heightened by the felicities of style no less than by the imaginative genius of the author.

15. PAUL AND VIRGINIA. By BERNARDIN DE SAINT PIERRE. 5. PAUL AND VIRGIMIA. By BERNARDIN DE SAINT PIERRE.

This idyllic story, by a classic French writer of the wholesome remantic school, this idyllic story, by a classic French writer of the wholesome remantic school, is an immortal book, and has won a place for itself in the homes of almost every people who possess a literature and can appreciate the work of genius. It may, people who possess a literature and can appreciate the work of genius. It may, with some literary propriety, be termed an idealized Robinson Crusose, and it has with some literary propriety, be termed an idealized Robinson that is sure to go all the fascination of that renowned work. It is a book that is sure to go down the centuries, charming as well as edifying generations yet unborn.

16. STORY OF AN AFRICAN FARM. By (Ralph Iron) OLIVE SCHREINER. Under the nom de plume of Ralph Iron, Miss Olive Schreiner has written an extraordinarily powerful story, full of graphic descriptions and the most appealing pathos. The author seems to have followed no recognized mode of romance, pathos. The author seems to have followed no recognized mode of romance, but struck out a new path in fiction for herself. Her novel consists of a series but struck out a new path in fiction for herself. Her novel consists of a series of studies illustrating the wild life of an orchard farm in South Africa, and setting before the reader, with striking vigor, the problems which trouble a strong ting before the reader, with striking vigor, the problems which trouble a strong ting before the reader, ambition, remote from any possibility of culture. The work, which leaves an abiling memory on every reader, is one of the most remarkable novels of the age.

17. LAYS OF THE SCOTTISH CAVALIERS.

These stirring ballads of Professor Aytoun, of Blackwood fame, have their only rival in Macaulay's "Lays of Ancient Rome." Their popularity is not lessented by the fact that they are to be met with in every school reader and in the repertoire of most elecutionists and platform declaimers. Nor is popular apprecipant of most elecutionists and platform declaimers. The popular apprecipant of the fact that their author, in enshrining in patriotic and clatter affected by the fact that their author, in enshrining in patriotic and soul-stirring verse the heroic incidents of Scottish history, takes the "Royalist" side as against that of the "Covenanters."

18. LUCILE. By OWEN MEREDITH (Robert Lord Lytton.) "Lucile," by the second Lord Lytton, late Governor-General of India and British Ambassador to Paris, is a novel in verse, with rhymed couplets, cast somewhat in the mould of Mrs. Browning's "Aurora Leigh." It is an enchanting what in the mould of Mrs. Browning's "Aurora Leigh." It is an enchanting story, with a strong admixture of romantic thought, plus fertility of invensiony, with a strong admixture of romantic thought, plus fertility of invensiony. tion and brilliant dialogue.

19. DREAMS. (In Press.) By (Ralph Iron) OLIVE SCHREINER. 9. DREAMS. (in Fress.) By (Raibu Iron) OLIVE SCHREINER.

Though unlike the "Story of an African Farm," "Dreams" has many of the characteristics which made Miss Schreiner's early work famous. The book is both interesting and suggestive, and, besides its high meditative qualities, is rich in the discussion of those mental and moral problems which this clever writer detlights to propound to herself and lay before the thoughtful reader. "Dreams" is manifestly the work of a rare and uncommon mini.

20. BLACK BEAUTY. (In Press.) By ANNA SEWELL. "Black Beauty" is a horse, and the story Miss Sewell so feelingly tells us is its autobiography. The tale well deserves its great popularity, for it is wonderfully realistic, and makes a strong appeal to those who love dumb animals and possess the instinct of common humanity. It is a book to charm and impress all who have to do with horses, especially those who seek to suppress that most senseless of all vices, cruelty to animals.
